

Schmidt's Yarn Body Hex

Recipe

Hook:	Daiichi #1280 Size: 6
Thread:	Yellow, 3/0 waxed mono
Tail:	Moose Body Hair, 6-8 fibers
Underbody:	Yellow, Sparkle Yarn
Overbody:	Deer Body Hair. Crisscross the thread in the normal drake style, flaring the tail at the bend of the hook.
Wing:	Goat Body Hair, with a little Glow-in-the-Dark Flashabou added to the top of the Goat Hair before tying in the wing. Tied spent wing.
Hackle:	Ginger Hackle.

Tying Tips: Standard fly tying techniques are used. I like to tie the hackle heavy so I use two ginger quills. I coat the body with a light layer of Flex-Seal. I use the Goat Body Hair because it floats better than calftail and it is a straighter fiber. Whip finish the head.

Fishing Tips: Before use; place flies into a container and fog them with 3M Scotchgard --- let them dry. Charge them up with a flashlight & fish the fly dead drift in the evening or after dark.

Historical Note: I started tying flies with my Uncle, Clarence Roberts at the age of 10. He has greatly influenced my fly tying. I developed this fly in the mid 1970's. I developed this effective fly pattern to have a different look than the typical drake style fly.
